Pacific Press® now publishes Revista Adventista® in full color

Nampa, Idaho (August 7, 2000) - Beginning with the third quarter, 2000, Revista Adventista, the Spanish-language counterpart to Adventist Review, is now published in full color to serve its 18,000 readers even more effectively. This change from black-and-white format to four-color has been made possible by a joint effort between Pacific Press and the North American Division's Office of Multilingual Ministries. Revista Adventista has served for years as a source of church information and spiritual nurture for Hispanic Adventists in North America. The magazine is published quarterly by Pacific Press in Nampa, Idaho, and is distributed free of charge to its readers.
