Proposals for $1 Million Partnership Opportunities Pour In

Nampa, Idaho (May 7, 2014) — The $1 million initiative recently announced by Pacific Press® has been enthusiastically endorsed by both the General Conference and the North America Division of Seventh-day Adventists. In this program, A Million Streams of Light, Pacific Press® will partner with other ministries to create innovative literature outreach strategies, i.e., new products and programs for evangelism. The response from churches and ministries has been immediate and proposals continue to be received at a steady rate.

Any department, church, ministry, or member within the church-at the local church, conference, union, or division level-is eligible to submit a request for a partnership project. All projects must fall within the parameters of the Pacific Press® mission statement: To uplift Jesus Christ in communicating biblical teachings, health principles, and family values through various types of printed materials.

Successful proposals will include new, creative uses of literature in ministry and will be able to be replicated by other churches and outreach programs. Results will be measurable.

Guidelines and applications can be found online and proposals can be submitted at www.pacificpress.com/streamsoflight.
