Updates. . .

Board Week

You may notice a number of our PPPA directors here this afternoon. Some are arriving today for committee meetings this evening, and of course, tomorrow is the summer board meeting. So we'll have a special chapel tomorrow morning with Elder William Winston, South Atlantic Conference president, as our guest speaker. We also have some great special music planned, so we'll see you there.

Teacher's Convention 2018

In early August, a small group of intrepid travelers made their way across the country to be at the NAD Teacher's Convention, held in Chicago on August 6-9. They set up and staffed the store and Pacific Press display, all the while meeting and greeting teachers and customers.

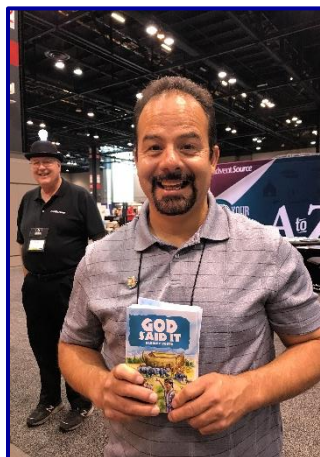

Here, you can see their handiwork in the store...

Top, L-R: Dan Wegh, Marketing; Dave Gatton, Sales; Don Laing, Chapel Music/Media; Bonnie Laing, Advertising.

Our group also got to spend time with friends of Pacific Press.

Marcus Mashburn, the illustrator for "God Said It"

Bonnie Laing and author Brenda Walsh, letting their lights shine, so to speak...

That's all from Teachers Convention 2018—until next time, in 2024!

Employee Update. . .

We Love Our Students!

All summer long, we've had the help of several students who've made our everyday tasks much easier. In the last issue of PIP, we introduced you to Jenae Rogers in Marketing, and today we'd like to show our appreciation to Sierra Bartlett and Susie Aguirre Duncan, who will be leaving us soon to return to their studies.

Sierra Bartlett has been working in Customer Service during her summer break. The staff in Customer Service say, "Sierra has been a delight to work with and we will miss her happy, bubbly spirit when she goes back to school this fall.

Have a great school year Sierra!"

Out in Shipping, Susie Aguirre Duncan has been helping the Shipping staff keep up with picks. She even learned to run the strapping machine. The shipping staff tell us Susie is a quick learner, and they really appreciate her work ethic, the way she stays on top of the job, her awesome attention to detail, and so much more.

Thanks for spending your summer with us, Susie!
