Ken Pline Retires

by Dale Galusha

On March 1, Ken Pline officially retired after 25 ½ years of service here at Pacific Press—and 35.68 total years of denominational employment. However, we will continue to see Ken around since he has agreed to continue in Finance on a part time basis. We are very thankful for his willingness to do this, since his experience and sense of institutional history will be invaluable.

Thank You, Ken, for your years of commitment and dedication to the mission of Pacific Press!

Meet Jane Mills

I have been at Pacific Press now for several weeks in the Product Development offices and have thoroughly enjoyed my time here. so far. While new to the publication aspects of printing I am not new to the printing industry. My husband Steven and I owned a small commercial print shop in Maryland for 18 years and Steven has been in printing since the seventh grade. So, I guess you can say printing is in my blood. My role was the accountant, bookkeeper, and co-manager and Steven's was everything else. I love the sights, sounds, and, yes, the smells of a print environment.

We have four awesome children, ranging from age 23 to 30. I am happiest when I am traveling, hiking, and exploring new places.

We are recent (if you can call 7 years now recent) transfers from the Review & Herald in Hagerstown, Maryland. I may have been born in Texas, but I grew up and have lived in Maryland most of my life. So, moving to Idaho has been a big, surreal change for me. However, growing up in Adventist schools has shown me that wherever you live there is always a "family" of connections within the Seventh-day Adventist circle.

I look forward to a long partnership with my colleagues here at Pacific Press.

Welcome Jane!
