

Press In Print

News and information from the President's Office assembled by Dale Galusha and Gina Duncan

The Chuck Fulmore Trio

Recently Pacific Press released a book by the title Never Give Up, it is a spiralbound songbook that contains the sheet music and the stories behind 21 of the Chuck Fulmore Trio's most beloved songs.

Last Sabbath, April 15th, at the Cloverdale Seventh-day Adventist Church, Chuck and Dona Fulmore were recognized for their life-long music ministry. Miguel presented them with a framed cover of their new book Never Give Up. Dale thanked them for their ministry and spoke of the impact of their work.

Cloverdale's pastor Marlon Seifert then shared a message and a testimony of how his life and that of those around him were touched by the songs of the Chuck Fulmore Trio.

If you would like to watch this special service, you can do that here.

Save the Date!

To help with your summer planning, the Social Committee would like you to know that this year's Summer Social will be at Wahooz on Thursday, June 22.

Watch for your invitation in the coming weeks.

Dateline

April 2023

- 19 PAYDAY
- 24 Chapel—Gem State Adventist Academy Choir

May 2023

- 1 Chapel—David Salazar, ID Conference
- 3 PAYDAY

Making Known the Truth of Biblical Prophecy

This article first appeared on the March 2023 issue of Journey Magazine

An interview with marketing and sales director Scott Cady about Signs of the Times.

What was the original mission of the publication?

The original mission of Signs of the Times was to proclaim the soon coming of Jesus and to teach people how to prepare for that glorious event. But more than that, it was to be a publication for everyone, covering topics that relate to the Christian life.

Back in 1874, the first year that Signs was published, James White told his readers about the new missionary magazine. He described it like this. “Signs of the Times is designed to be not only an expositor of the prophecies, a reporter of the signs of our times, but also a family, religious, and general newspaper for the household” (Signs of the Times, June 11, 1874).

As the Seventh-day Adventist Church’s sharing magazine, it was designed to be widely distributed. In 1906, on the heels of the tragic San Francisco earthquake, Ellen White offered this counsel to Adventists: “Just now, when people are thinking seriously, literature on the meaning of the signs of the times, wisely circulated, will have a telling effect in behalf of the truth. . . . Now is our opportunity to make known the truth to them” (Review and Herald, May 24, 1906).

How has the mission changed and/or adapted since its inception?

Today Signs continues to produce a missionary journal that communicates the Adventist understanding of truth, written in a way that reaches a twenty-first-century audience.

Each year Signs publishes articles on prophecy that help people to understand the times we live in and the nearness of Jesus’ second coming. Over the course of a year, all of the major teachings of the Bible are covered, including salvation, the Sabbath, the state of the dead, and the Second Coming. Each issue also includes devotional articles on healthful living and family life. And of course, Signs tries to make the magazine as attractive as possible. We want readers to be drawn to the beauty of God’s Word.

You can read this article in full here, where you can also find a small tribute to Marvin Moore.